KOTA KINABALU, May 22 (Bernama) -- Sabah-based non- governmental organisation (NGO) Angkatan Perubahan Sabah (APS), which aligned itself with Pakatan Rakyat in the recent general election, is considering the possibility of registering the organisation as a political entity.

In disclosing this to reporters after chairing APS' supreme council meeting, here today, APS chairman Datuk Seri Wilfred Bumburing said its supreme council members felt that there was a need to register APS as a platform to continue their political struggle.

However, Bumburing, who is the newly-elected state assemblyman for Tamparuli, declined to divulge the details including the probable name of the proposed party, saying the registration was one of the options mooted by its supreme council members.
