Prime Minister Datuk Seri Najib Razak had the perfect soft launch for his new "Endless Possibilities" campaign with the acquittal of two policemen in the murder of Mongolian Altantuya Shaariibuu.

DAP adviser Lim Kit Siang (pic) said this in a statement, adding that the acquittals made it three strikes for Najib's new campaign this month - the other two being the forced DAP central executive committee (CEC) re-election and the approval for the screening of the Tanda Putera movie.

"Today, Najib's new branding of 'Endless Possibilities' plumbed new depths even before it is officially launched next month and has become the most favourite quote of Malaysians when the three-member Court of Appeal unanimously freed Special Action Unit officers Chief Inspector Azilah Hadri and Corporal Sirul Azhar Umar," said Lim.

In the case of the DAP re-elections, he said this was the triumph of Umno and Barisan Nasional's seven-month long "demolish/destroy DAP" campaign.

As for Tanda Putera, which has a scene of a young Chinese man urinating in front of the Selangor menteri besar's official residence, Lim offered that there were no historical facts to show that such an incident did happen.

"Even if it is completely fictional, it is the height of irresponsibility to depict the urination incident in an officially-funded movie because it could incite inter-racial distrust, discord and hatred, completely inimical to nation-building efforts, particularly on the occasion of the country's 56th National Day," he added. - August 23, 2013.
