Australian shares rose 0.3% today, underpinned by miners and a record high close on Wall Street, though sentiment was soured somewhat by a profit warning from Goldman Fielder.

The S&P/ASX 200 index added 14.1 points to close at 5,403.3. The benchmark slipped 0.1% yesterday.

New Zealand's benchmark NZX 50 index slipped 0.1% or 6.2 points to finish the session at 5,116.3. – Reuters, April 2, 2014.
