JITRA, May 1 (Bernama) -- Civil servants must adopt the five criteria underlined by Prime Minister Datuk Seri Najib Tun Razak to enhance the civil service and serve the people better.

Chief Secretary to the government Tan Sri Dr Ali Hamsa said the five principles were important to improve the delivery system and performance of the civil servants in the country.

He said what was important was their contribution can boost the performance of the overall economy of the country.

"The five principles are aimed at further strengthening the civil service and increase productivity and contribute to the development of the country," Ali Hamsa told reporters at the 2014 Civil Service Labour day celebration at Wawasan Hall which was launched by Prime Minister Datuk Seri Najib Tun Razak, here Thursday.

The Prime Minister urged the civil servants to adopt the five principles (criteria) to fulfill the transformation that can help civil servants to move forward for the next 50 years.

The five criteria is knowledge, reliability, best work practice, patriotism and success culture that is outcome based.

During the celebration that was themed "Civil Servants, Pillar of the Nation", Ali Hamsa was selected for the Special Award 2014.
