KUALA LUMPUR, May 4 (Bernama) -- Datuk Seri Najib Tun Razak, who took part in the fifth KL Car-Free Morning Campaign today, described cycling as a great exercise for him.

"I had fun cycling at DBKL's (Kuala Lumpur City Hall) KL Car-Free Morning to support the government's policy to reduce 40 per cent of carbon emissions by 2020," the prime minister said in his Facebook post Sunday.

He said in order to make the government's initiative to improve the liveability of the capital a success, everyone had to make a collective effort to promote a greener Kuala Lumpur.

He also shared seven photographs taken around the Kuala Lumpur City Centre (KLCC) during the campaign, showing him mingling with the participants as well posing for photographs with them.

Donning cycling apparel, Najib earlier joined some 10,000 cyclists for a three-kilometre ride through Jalan Bukit Bintang, Jalan P Ramlee, Jalan Raja Laut, Jalan Sultan Ismail, Jalan Tuanku Abdul Rahman, Jalan Dang Wangi and Jalan Ampang starting at 7 am.
