SEPANG, June 20 (Bernama) -- The problem of depressions in the Kuala Lumpur International Airport 2 (klia2) does not affect its safety besides still meeting with international standards, said acting Transport Minister Datuk Seri Hishammuddin Tun Hussein.

However, he said the monitoring of the problem would be continued by an independent consultant, Ikram Premier Consulting and International Civil Aviation Organisation (ICAO).

"I have requested Malaysia Airports Holdings Berhad (MAHB) to give their cooperation in the matter. Ikram is currently in the second phase of its study and requires several more months to complete," the minister told reporters after attending a briefing on KLIA2 in Sepang, Friday.

Prior to this, both independent consultants were appointed to investigate claims related to the depressions and water pools that were said to occur at the runway and parking bay areas of the new airport.

At that time, Hishammuddin, who is also Defence Minister, was satisfied with the KLIA2 operation and positive feedback received.

"But there are several matters that need to be improved such as more sign boards and walkway facilities for the passengers' comfort, especially the elderly," he said.
