Received these very interesting notes from my friend Wan Dal Cha whose political expertise and connections are perhaps ten times greater than mine,

1. PM DS Najib Razak convened political bureau meeting yesterday to secure buy in for party polls to be held next year.
2. Today's Umno supreme council meeting would produce a brilliant photo opp instead of a fractious reunion.
3. This shall pave the way for Najib to go off with his reputation salvaged, somewhat.
4. He anticipates the emerging Johor lobby to nominate DS Hishammuddin Hussein for the number one post. Deputy president TS Muhyiddin Yassin will stay out to begin a career as a statesman.
5. Najib knows today's flag off will provoke realignments. He has been trying to avoid this sort of slugfest, hence the earlier move to postpone party polls. Two teams will quickly take shape. Two deputy presidential candidates shall materialise. Najib will avoid having others nominated for the No 1 post so he would announce his impending retirement. Najib will avoid being one of three or four candidates nominated for number one post so he may announce his impending retirement perhaps by middle of next year.
5. This is the truce that will avoid a bruising vote of confidence attempt at the Dewan Rakyat.
