MUAR, March 3 (Bernama) -- Consuming raisins and commitment to 'solat dhuha' or late night prayers is part of one Sijil Pelajaran Malaysia (SPM) student's recipe for academic excellence.

Nurjazreena Zulkifli, one of four Sekolah Menengah Sains Muar students who scored 9A+ in the examination said staying at a hostel was also a factor for her success as she was able to concentrate more on her studies.

"At the mock examination I only managed 9A and to get A+ in all the subjects was unexpected. It is because of everybody's prayers," she told reporters when met at her school in Muar, Tuesday.

The lass who was accompanied by her mother Jamiah Md Salleh, 53, said she aimed to be an accountant.

Meanwhile, Johor Education director Aminudin Adam said 1,204 SPM candidates in the state last year achieved excellence in all the subjects they sat for.
