SIBU, March 11 (Bernama) -- SibU police uncovered a new modus operandi used by drug traffickers, with the arrest of three suspects who used '3-in-one' instant drink sachets to conceal drugs.

The three suspects, aged between 18 and 20, were detained in SibU town at 12.15pm yesterday with the drugs concealed in '3-in-one' sachets said SibU deputy police chief Supt Martin Khoo.

"The drugs weighing 1.1kg were found in the Toyota Hilux 4-wheel drive that the three suspects were travelling in," he told reporters at the SibU police headquarters, here Wednesday.

Under normal circumstances, the sachets resemble '3-in-one' instant drink sachets but the drug traffickers would remove the contents of the instant drink sachets and replace them with drugs and seal them before being sold to their 'clients'.

The drugs, nicknamed 'Happy Water' can be mixed with any form of drinks, including alcohol and each sachet was believed to be sold at about RM200.

Police also seized a few 10ml bottles that contained liquid ketamin, 175 ecstasy pills, RM3,900 cash and the 4-wheel drive.
