ANTALYA (TURKEY), Nov 14 (Bernama) -- Datin Seri Rosmah Mansor, wife of the Malaysian prime minister, Saturday visited the Antalya Rehabilitation Centre for the Disabled, the second biggest of its kind in Europe.

The programme for the visit was organised for wives of the G20 state leaders, as well as those from invited nations attending the G20 Summit meeting which begins tomorrow.

At the centre, Rosmah spent an hour talking to those who were undergoing the rehabilitation programme.

The wives of the state leaders were given a briefing on the centre where more therapy processes were being included, such as swimming therapy and independence-boosting programmes such as information technology classes and group efforts.
