Police will contact Charles Morais, the younger brother of the murdered Kevin Morais, for information which he claimed he has on the events leading to the murder of the deputy public prosecutor, Malaysiakini reported.

Earlier today, Charles told reporters that he was in possession of a pen drive that Kevin had sent him by courier before he was murdered and that it contained information on the cases he was working on "which implicates certain personalities who currently walk the corridors of power in Malaysia".

"I suggest he shares the contents with us for action to be taken," Inspector-General of Police Tan Sri Khalid Abu Bakar told Malaysiakini.

"We can't act if we have no knowledge about the late Kevin's secrets."

Khalid was also quoted as saying that refusal to disclose a criminal act amounted to an offence.

"If he (Charles) knows that a certain offence has been committed but refuses to disclose it, he commits an offence as well," he said.

"Yes, looks like we have to call him up," the IGP answered when asked by Malaysiakini if police would record a statement from Charles following his allegations in a statutory declaration (SD).

Charles, who lives in Atlanta, USA, had prepared an 18-page SD on the Morais siblings' relationship and several discussions he had with Kevin, prior to his murder.

He told reporters that the pen drive his brother sent to him is in safe custody in the USA with someone who has instructions to release it publicly should anything untoward happen to him for swearing this SD.

"The content of this pen drive clearly and unequivocally reveal the investigations Kevin had been tasked with just before his untimely death which implicates certain personalities who currently walk the corridors of power in Malaysia," Charles had said.

He had also said he did not believe Kevin was killed because he was prosecuting a government pathologist for corruption.

"Kevin was killed for other reasons and I believe these other motives were because he knew too much about the criminal acts of those high up in the echelons of power in Malaysia and he needed to be silenced because of that," Charles had said. – November 25, 2015.
