KUALA LUMPUR, March 3 (Bernama) -- Prime Minister Datuk Seri Najib Tun Razak wants the 2015 Sijil Pelajaran Malaysia (SPM) examination candidates who obtained their results today to make wise choices about their future.

He advised them to consult their parents, teachers and education counsellors before making any decision.

In a post on his Facebook account, Najib said they, however, also needed to listen to their inner feelings.

"Good luck to the #spm2015? Candidates who received their results today. Many of you will take the next step in determining your future (from) pre-university to career after this.

"God willing, success will come to those who really strive for it," he said.

A total of 9,721 candidates obtained excellent results (Grade A+, A, A-) in all subjects in the 2015 SPM examination.
