TOKYO, May 29 (Bernama) -- Malaysians, particularly students studying in Japan should emulate the way the Japanese and Koreans have managed to maintain a balance between keeping their traditional values while living in a new ultra-high tech culture.

Deputy Prime Minister Datuk Seri Dr Ahmad Zahid Hamidi said in line with the continuation of the Look East Policy (LEP) 2.0, positive work ethics and practices of the Japanese should serve as a guide in moving towards a developed nation status by year 2020.

He said a nation's success was not based purely on academic excellence as it was dependent on levels of educational attainment as well as society's attitudes and behavior.
