KUALA LUMPUR, Aug 13 (Bernama) --The TN50 Youth Ideation Lab today discussed on seven key elements which had been summarised from the 60,000 aspirations of Malaysian youth for the National Transformation 2050 (TN50).

The lab involving 80 youths with their mentors from the TN50 Future Group, is being held for two days beginning yesterday.

The discussion touched on making cities in Malaysia more resident-friendly through proper planning and design, building a relevant and future-proof education system, and creating a civic-minded society who show mutual respect for one another whether online or face-to-face.

The lab also discussed on the formation of a more cohesive Malaysia with a strong national identity and mutual trust, fostering a health conscious society, making people aware of environmental conservation and getting the people involved in the country's administration in a consistent and systematic manner.

Head of TN50 and Civil Service Delivery Unit at Economic Planning Unit (EPU) Johan Mahmood Merican said the discussion was the key part of the TN50.....
