COCHABAMBA, Aug 16 (BERNAMA-NNN-PRENSA LATINA) - Bolivia's President Evo Morales announced the creation next month of a high-level commission to promote Chinese investment in Bolivia.

At a press conference after returning from a five-day visit to China, Morales said the commission will have the collaboration of Chinese experts.

He stressed the interest of the Chinese business community to invest in areas like energy, mining, infrastructure and food security.

Morales also said agreements to strengthen cultural exchange, promotion and arts education were signed when he was in China.

He also highlighted the signing of contracts to purchase machinery for the state-owned YPFB oil company and added that China officially declared Bolivia as a tourist destination for its market.
