First and foremost I wish to express my gratitude for the kind invitation rendered me by the Malaysian Women Graduate Association to attend the lecture tonight. I also extend my warmest welcome to the distinguished speaker Dr. Glenn Doman Chairman of the Board, The Institutes for Achievement of Human Potential, and his charming wife Katie who are able to respond to the request by the Malaysian Women Graduate Association to deliver the lecture tonight. It is our privilege to have such a renowned speaker tonight, to share with us his valuable experience in the field of human development.

2. This lecture undoubtedly have been well timed at this juncture, in the context of the new long term Malaysian population policy.

3. I am sure all of us will benefit from the lecture which will bring us into new and exciting dimensions, not or less known to us before this. As future parents and parents we will definitely have to search for new and creative ways and avenues to enable us to be better and more professional, in the ways of bringing up our children and caring for them. This is so especially in the light of all the troubles and woes facing the young generation of today not only in Malaysia but all over the world.

4. Lastly I wish the Malaysian Women Graduate Association success in all their present and future projects and programmes for the betterment of women especially and society in general.
