

SOUND BITES - AUSTRALIA'S INDIAN STUDENTS

chedet.co.cc

February 18, 2010

1. The Australians have been attacking Indian students. Barry Wain would consider this as isolated incidents, not typical of Australians at all. He would certainly not put the blame on Mr Kevin Rudd, the Prime Minister.

2. But supposing this happens in Malaysia, then of course the Prime Minister must have been responsible.

Assalamualaikum Yg BerBhg Tun Dr Mahathir,

i've tried my best to keep up with your writing, but i rarely had the time to read all the comments sent by your fans(??). But after reading 'SOUND BITES' i was struck by several interesting points made by some of the writers. Though i have never written b4, partly due to lack of time and partly also due to my lack of knowledge and wisdom, i'd like to share some of my thoughts concerning the issue.

It is interesting to note how some people were asking questions like "have you been in Australia", your level of maturity and how silly your comments are and i was like "my goodness, are they asking all these to Tun Dr Mahathir? Are they for real?"

It's also interesting to be able to read the mind of some probably non-malay writers (or are they malay writers; i apologise if i'm wrong about the race) which is quite scary to me, and i hope those are not the beliefs of the rest of my dearly beloved non-malay and malay friends.

I am also more aware now of what the younger generations think of Malaysian politicians vs Aussie politicians: darling, finish your study first. i don't know whether your studies are financially supported by your mummy and daddy; or is it supported by this "corrupted" and "racist" Malaysian government? Clearly we the graduates in the 90's are not as brilliant as you, eh, sayang? Whatever it is, we would not be who we are now if we were not helped by the same "corrupted" government you are referring to. The same goes to my Chinese and Indian ex-classmates who were all educated in the same universities in Malaysia although some of my Chinese friends went to private colleges which we the Malays would not be able to afford to go to those times.

Before i go, congratulations and all the best to Raj; clearly you have found your greener ground in the land Down Under. But that doesn't give you the right to comment on things happening in Malaysia since you are THERE, not HERE in Malaysia. The same like when you think Tun Dr Mahathir doesn't have the right to comment on Australia since he has "never" been there, and this comment of yours had made me ticklish all over, and it still does...

To anakbudu3, Bravo, and it's nice to finally meet such writing as yours. And the same goes to several more people here.

Thanks to everybody reading..I pray to Allah for Tun's well-being..

To gunse007,

GROW UP!

Please learn to GROW UP!

You feel hurt when people talk about your race, and you want them to stop immediately whoever they are and not discuss about this,
you even want this blog to be shut down.

did you get what you want?

did you get what you wish for?

Well, keep on saying bad things, feel it the same way if you still want to play with shit, and shit you will get back. The choice is yours.

Why must you do that?

What do you get?

Do you think that 'they' will help you 'datukship' after all the messed that you have created?

Please learn and GROW UP!

Please understand what is Tun Mahathir trying to do here.

Please learn to be more civilized.

Please, GROW UP!

Terima kasih Ayahanda Tun Mahathir.

sadly there are those malaysians subscribing to those thoughts of Barry Wain....one thing for sure...those 'colonialist' have not the slightest intentions to enrich their 'slaves'.

By gunse007  on February 26, 2010 9:55 PM

All politicians are scoundrels including many in malaysia.

this country would have reached great heights if Tenku Razaleigh was the PM since 1981 instead of dr. mahathir, badawi and najib.

the malays would have reached great height with Ku Li as PM instead of the others....

Just wish Dr. Mahathir served patients in Kedah instead of becoming a politician.

What a waste...

Dear YAB Tun, salam mesra harap sihat. Kiriman saya untuk tajuk pendek tapi dalam ini dgn izin.....

.....BAWAL PUTIH BAWAL HITAM

The M'sian PM is held to be more responsible cos the Australian PM does not commit these...

- >Preside over a party of a single race fighting for supremacy blatantly (alarm bell)
- >Allow people to rail against a Court ruling with threats and taunts immediately after prayers and peace with God.
- >Immediately arrest people peacefully and quietly lighting candles but slowly preparing charges for cow head protestors.
- >Allow people to tear and burn photos of current leaders but condemn stepping on photos of corrupt people.
- >Allow Umno to raise marginalisation of Malays (Penang) but arrest Hindraf for marginalisation of Indians.
- >Umno can hail and howl on Malay marginalisation but DAP leaders are jailed under ISA on vernacular education (Ops Lallang)

All the above can be linked back to bias of a racial origin.

By NMNT  on February 22, 2010 12:59 PM

Dear Tun,

As a child growing up in M'sia, the only person I knew as a PM was Dr. M, many years later, my idol is still Dr.M. As a human, you are right, you make mistake too. With this Indian issue in Australia, may I correct you and to those whom making negative comments from afar, check your facts before you make silly comments.

I live and work here in Australia for 15 years and my best friends (and in Oz we call them mates) are White Australians. You get the occasionally racism issue but it will be similar issues wherever you are around the world. Even a chinese in China will discriminate against their own people ie from another region.

To those who have never been to Australia and thought it is a racist country, I welcome you to this great country. Give yourself a chance to embrace other culture and integrate. They are some of the nicest people on earth. And believe it or not, some of the world's top ten most livable cities feature Australian cities.

All this negative images were created by the media and blown out of proportion. You lament when others do it to you and why do we have to dish it at others? For instance, one of the supposed victim of the racism acts have been charged for burning his own car to get insurance payout. He is playing to the "racism sentiment" issue. Did the media make a big hoo haa about that?

Assallammualaikumwarahmatullahiwabarokatuh..

Semoga mendapat izin.kesudian dan perkenan Tun..

Bro Kamal Ahmad

[[Tun, Firstly I would like to convey my greetings to your good self and to my fellow blogger Khairy J Wenger. I have been following Wenger's write and I should declare that this individual is neutral and unprejudiced in his (or her) review. I hope to be reading some more of his takes on things past and present. I am still trying to determine his angle of approach over the various issues on board here, and I must say that his reproach at times is diplomatically docile and compelling]]

I might not agrees with your view bro..but where response need responding,my philosophy is to follow their own style..Thus my style in response to Mr Ravi is easy but response to SR is highly demanding because of lack of my intellect and fear of compromising my own identity.In martial art, I love to ape the opponent moves..this is called MENCURI HIKMAT

So..The point is?..

Bro..Most people have no natural talent like Tun..No achievement to speak of compared to Prof Ridcully..and no material and resources that you have...but they still fantasize that they can come up equal..Now..

Here..in Tun blog..people who don't have that abilities..have to come here,seeking popularity in Tun blog..Other's seeking platform and avenue to ridicule Islam in name of "enlightment" and many more..

[[I am particularly intrigued by the writer's suggestion of the lines that separates good and bad, truth and lies, how do we go about ascertaining these lines? Well frankly, maybe we don't. At best perhaps these types of definitions are paradox in character. No real fixed values, no real tangible hold and that leaves us reaching for something else in between]]

This I had to disagree.Human intelligent are very much short.At best is describe by Allah in Al Quran

"Manusia itu lemah"

So..they must only takes guidance from Al Quran and hadith alone.Thus,justification in any name is blasphemy..

[[So that brings things back to square one, how do you dismantled their apparent (notice the word apparent) strength? Perhaps maybe by simply overcoming as much as possible the weakness in BN (in particular UMNO) we may just achieve that. It has come to a point now where too much of the left and too much of the right is simply no good anymore]]

Again..we always look it the wrong way.Some believes that PKR Zul is "championing" Islam.If I am not mistaken, he does not gives Tun proper respect..There..in my opinion a person who does not respect other's whose contribution cannot be denied,they themselves cannot be taken seriously..

[[by that I mean we come clean and we rise again from the ashes. You know where bullying takes things too right? Well you should really]]

Yes we should..Bro Kamal..you are a good man.And what do they say about good man?

Good man are hard to find Kurtwood Smith.Rambo 3.

But I think you don't have prosper grasp of Provocateur Impression..Lee Kuan Yew is good in this aspect though..

[[My dear esteemed blogger Wenger J Khairy, anakbudu3, Waja Perak, HBT and all the others]]

This I have to protest bro..If I took this claims..I will make Mr Ravi feels very much aggrieved..I am not esteemed of any kind..I played my role to certain perfection.I will be denying the true and real our unsung heroes everywhere.They who operated undercover..have no joy but only good feeling of "mission accomplished"..

Ode to you all the DCE (Deep Cover Operative)Cukuplah Allah yang membalas jasa anda kalian..

[[the sort of intimidation politics and threats have been buried for good. Sporadic remnants may count their days within all existing fingers they may still have.]]

Again..If I may..Even Rasullulah s.a.w anticipated "impression"..Allowed sahabah military incursion and spy act..Intimidation is another term and definition..

There is another..

Ribuan terima kasih Tun..

By wajaperak  on February 22, 2010 11:01 AM Semoga mendapat perkenan dan Izin Tun..

Sigh..Mr Ravi..Sigh Mr Rarunasalam..:)

So..Let's make it short and simple.

I need friends who can be counted on hard time. "Kawan menangis". So I devised a scheme of "purging" the unwanted one through football team..Ahem..Mr Ravi..soccer according to the American.. Term and definition..:))

In short..most people labeled me as stupid. Why waste money on this sure floundered team?..Aha..in case you didn't know..it was a smokescreen of my other intent..Finding the true soulmate..

So..that day I truly depended on an acquaintance to become a friend. We were downed many goals and I signaled him to come as substitutes..He refused and instead make way for another..

I became so incensed and I spat at his direction for "betraying" me on the field..

Later..colleagues asked him why he did not play? He said because I spat on him..

So Mr Ravi..in Potrayal of truth..he told other's that I spat on him that made he did not play on that day..What he conveniently

omitted

(Quoting Tun's lamentation on Malaysiakini)

that he betrayed our covenant of friendship first that warranted my anger of that spat..

Consequently..Mr Ravi..you wrote blog 26 million people visited out of love

It is fact..he..he..

And Tun blog garnered 27 million people not because people "loves him".

This is fiction!!..

So..Mr Ravi..between your fact and Tun fiction..I rather chose fiction than the truth..

Er..I mean your truth..

Ribuan terima kasih Tun..:))

dont use indians as pawn against the australia. u never cared for malaysian indians.

u have failed the malays. GAGAL.....

in fact if the malays were as good as the chinese and the indians at the same level, this country would be a developed country .

by failing the malays, u have failed the whole malaysia. then whats the point of keeping umno and BN as government.

we can trust Nizar, Nik Aziz, Lim Guan Eng, Hadi, Karpal Singh, MB Khalid yang lebih jujur dan amanah daripada orang lain....

negeri2 lain yang dipimpin BN, bila lagi nak berubah????
sayonara BN/UMNO.

cucu cicit dato maharajala lela, kamu cakap ape ni??

mana ada Barathanathium, ejaan pun salah, aduhai..
bharatanatyam baru betul.

untuk menjawab soalan2 kurang bijak dari kamu;
google and check, ada 40 big temples for the hindus for the indian population far lower than in malaysia.

ada banyak restoran makanan india di australia.
the fact is indians in australia are as successful as anywhere else in the world kecuali kat malaysia.

kamu pergi tengok kat middle east, dubai, abu dhabi, UK, USA.. in fact richest minority in US and UK are indians where in term of per capita income, we beat everybody, go and google it yourself, if you think i am lying....

CEO citibank, CEO pepsi are indians okey....

last skali, berpuluh ribu orang melayu pun ramai berhijrah ke negara luar termasuk UK dan australia pasal tak tahan kerenah bodoh orang politik kat malaysia.

1. The Lord Mayor of Melbourne from 2001-2004 was John so Chun Sai
2. He was born in Hong Kong in 1946. In this country there are some people who would call him 'pendatang'.
3. He was the first elected mayor of Melbourne and was re-elected for a second term.
4. He was named World Mayor for 2006.

it is a big difference when individual whites whack indians with the government whacking one.
there are racist in all society including in chinese malay and indian. but what about government.

malaysia government policies are racist compare to australia. no wonder even malays like to migrate there because of umno stupidity.

u let malays walk forever with tongkat instead of walking tall by their own.

Assalamualaikum wbt Yg Bhg Tun & family,

Tonight is 6th Rabiul Awal 1431 Hijrah, Saturday, 1133pm (20/2/2010). Upon repeated reviewing of your short posting, it is safe to conclude that Barry Wain is in issue here since his name is being mentioned in the very first para , first line of Yg Bhg Tun posting. Upon some research and reading, it is hope that what is being written here might be helpful and useful to you Yg Bhg Tun.

Barry Wain first met Yg Bhg Tun when he was the staff correspondent for the Asian Wall Street Journal between 1977-1979 when Yg Bhg Tun was Deputy Prime Minister. He now live in Singapore but remains as an Australian citizen. Well he might have kept some personal grudges since his ASWJ days under your Prime Ministership thus it lead him to initiate a mala fide comparison between your leadership and those of third world leaders and in addition worst he went on to mention Marcos as well but what might annoyed Malaysians - he wrote that only two persons that outperformed you as a leader and both he mentioned are from Singapore.

By any standard, Barry Wain comparison is by no means fair. What yardstick did he used? It is a mere general comparison without any basis, forming his personal hate for Yg Bhg Tun to the extend he went back on record to trace that Yg Bhg Tun alleged hate for Australia dated back in the late 60's.

Well Yg Bhg Tun, Barry Wain writing can best be summed up into a person who choose to repay the hospitality given to him wrongly borrowing the phrase from para 6 of your malaysiakini posting .

Barry Wain did not appreciate when given repeated opportunity to interview Yg Bhg Tun and family members and even your Perdana Leadership Foundation has assisted him in providing the photograph for him-- to be printing money since the global release of his book early last month. Although the book was a little bit historically informative, the conclusion did really reflect how he harbour ill feeling against you Yg Bhg Tun. It is best that Yg Bhg Tun either to ignore him completely or perhaps just give a simple reply in Yg Bhg Tun own memoirs later, Insyallah. Akhir Kalam, what is best is from Allah swt and what is factually incorrect comes from me alone as a weak human being, Wallahualam.

Of course it is the PM of the Aussie fully responsible of those Acts, I surely believe that him and most Aussie will condone to all the misery towards the Indian students. Actually they are Happy doing it with pleasure Bashing up the Indian fella after a good Aussie beer drinking session, it was so nice like in the traditional Aussie ways. Drinking and bashing up Indian are the way to live.

I call it B U I U I (bashing up Indian Under the Influences)

Maybe if we kept quite about it they can turn it into a live show, tourist attraction and so on.

At first they did it because it is right for them to hurt the Indian fella but then they realized it is hurting their bread and butter the government intervened but to no resolution. The Aussie are just too chauvinistic towards Non Aussie Asians people, at least this is what I've experienced, heard from relatives who is my auntie whose got an American citizenship and lives in Ohio. Although she's got a good American Accent but still she was always feeling aggrieved by these Aussie and I quote she said that, " Most Australian are very Distinctive to us Asian". Imagine if that can happen to one person whom is capable of communication with them what will happen to those people who can't converse at all. You see my auntie tried to make a good connection but still refused.

I am very sure that B W cannot make any comment or judgment about this because he is an Aussie who feels that it is normal for an Aussie to behave towards those Indian as it is. Maybe B W will stop dichloroformoximing our leaders if we elect an Aussie to be our next PM, they will say this is the right way of governig and so on. Is this the kind of people whom we want to back up our legal system when we get into some trouble.

So TUN, godspeed, May our vision of 2020 will come through and Ins-ya-Allah he will provide all of us Malaysian the courage, wittiness, per severances and the complete package so that we can stand H2H (Head to head) with all our Antagonistic Opposer which is now having more saying and doing things throughout the globe.

Salam Tun, or in The Aussie's country they will say Gi'Day Tun: Today is The Day that the people of Malaysian will decide of what they want best for their country. Either they want to say Assalamualaikum or Vanakkam or Ni Hao ma or Whatever language that we use to greet each other here.

MAYBE later we can change it to Hello Gi' Day or Buon Giorno , that is ho they say it in Australia. Maybe next election we can go to our new parliamentary in Australia:

http://www.aph.gov.au/senate/rss/new_inquiries.xmlparliament ... See more

If.....we decide to put our faith of governing our laws according to theirs better we give them everything we have if..... the people of Malaysian decide to let the Aussie determine our nature of law.

Maybe it nice if we can go for political matters while our family can go for the best Australian tours with special privilege since we are Aussie TOO.....YES

What is happening in Msia is injustice to many races , whether it is a Malay women who is caned for the sake of religion or a discriminated Chinese/Indian who cannot get into university due to discrimination of the quota system that you have set.

While I may agree there will be racism wherever you go due to the historical demographics in the past, but that doesn't mean you can lash out at someone before looking at your own country. How many times indians were sprayed with tear gas in your own country, how many Chinese were called whores/pendatang in your country, how many Muslim Women were discriminated and caned, how many women were raped by immigrants from Indonesia & Bangladesh? WHAT DID YOU DO when all these happened? Please have a look at your own country before coming in as a hero saying 'Oh Indians are attacked in australia and nobody said nothing to Rudd'.

Julia Gillard, Kevein Rudd are working very hard to get the "NO RACISM IN MODERN AUSTRALIA".

Dear Raj,

Well, Julia and Kevin are working very hard to get "NO RACISM IN MODERN AUSTRALIA" what about you as Malaysian? You talk about religion, education, discrimination, blah...blah... Do you ever respect and accept yourself as an Indian Malaysian in the 1st place? From your comment, you did not because you are inferior and jealous. By reading your comment, I assured you that Julia and Kevin would never want you to work with them to fight for NO RACISM because you are a time bomb to them whom can be exploded anytime, any day due to mild speculations and gossips.

What Samy does will be definitely bad, and many of you blamed him for MAIKA Holding losses, for not fighting for Indians' rights, education, equality etc. If you put yourself in Samy's shoes, what would you do then? I feel sorry for the under privileged Indians who are poor and uneducated when you as the educated bunch (who knows nothing about investments) know only the blaming games.

You want people to accept and respect you, respect and accept MIC first before you talk about fairness and equality for your race in Malaysia. If you don't, then it's your personal problem because people are not interested to know you personally.

I do not mind Nasir Safar for labelling the local Chinese as prostitutes because it is a fact that prostitution at that time was the only way women could earn better living lifestyle. And during that time, many Chinese women were forced to go into prostitutions due to poverty and social inequality.

By the way, Raj, can we tell off the robbers not to rob after 2am? As a decent person, you should know the high risk of being robbed if you are alone in Chow Kit and Pudu Raya, isn't it?

Before you point the fingers to others, please mirror yourself and ask yourself what have you done for the country, your race, your family and yourself?

Take care Tun.

By Musmt  on February 20, 2010 9:29 AM

Dey Raj....

What you mean by no racial problem in Australia as in Malaysia??

Just think deeply the differences...

DO YOU HAVE TAMIL OR CHINESE SCHOOL in Australia like what we have in Malaysia...

IF you have the brain to think about that, then you would know the differences between Malaysia and your "sweet home" Australia...

JUST MIND YOUR OWN BUSINESS...you don't have enough knowledge to talk about Malaysia...

By HS  on February 20, 2010 1:31 AM

I think we have to start thinking that diversity can actually enrich the perspective of life.

Assalamualaikum warahmatullahi wabarakatuh dan salam sejahtera, Salam hormat kepada Ayahanda Tun Dr. Mahathir,

THE inferiority COMPLEX of AUSTRALIAN

Australian has come to their inferiority complex stage where they are now affraid to the Indians.

The simple formula they applied is by looking at the United Kingdom, the place they once lived.

The British whom practiced human right had to struggle with the Pakistanis migrations.

So the British Pakistani were called "Paki" by the British.

Soon, there will be Indian Aussies, and the white Australian 'may be' will call Indian as "Indi".

We really wish to see the Australian practicing 1Australian so we can have 'tosey', 'roti canai', 'parpu', 'vadey', 'ladhu', 'rassem' and so on in Australia openly, by all means: 'openly', not only at a certain place in Australia.

Can Australia practice 1Australia like 1Malaysia?

Can Australia has Indian Minister in their MP like 1Malaysia has?

'Be open in this OPEN Field', please...

this is NOT an OPEN Fight, but it is an OPEN MIND field created by Tun Dr.Mahathir Mohamad.

Thank you very much!

P.s: Kudos & Salute to Tun. Dr.M

Soooo?... (BIG So?)

Raj,

1. How many Indian temple in Sydney?
2. How many "BIG-BIG" Indian temple in Australia?
3. How many Indian "Menteri" (Indian MP) in Australia?
4. How many Indian public holiday in Australia?
5. How many Indian Tamil School in Australia?
6. How many Indian 24 Hours shop in Australia?
7. How many Indian foreign workers working in Australia?
8. How many Indian 1st Class citizen in Australia?
9. How many Indians NGOs in Australia?
10. How many Indian Aussie that called Australian?

Raj,

1. "THINK before you SPEAK!"

Raj,

2. "Running away from PROBLEMS is NOT going to solve YOUR PROBLEM"

Raj,

3. "Leaving all your family behind by giving them an empty promises will just make you feel NOT ENOUGH everyday"

Poor Raj,
Do you know what is "Barathanathium"?

Do you have any White Australian who can do "Bharatanatium"?
(How many?)

Malaysia has lots of Chinese, Indian, Chindian, Malay, Indian Muslim, Peranakan, who can do "Bharatanathium",

Do you know what is "Bharatanathium"?

Malaysia has started this beautiful things since long ago by mixing all race in their respective sort of things,

Do you still want to call me 'racist' if I had already proved to you on how to say pronounce "Bharatanathium",?

Do you know what is "Bharatanathium"?

Do you want me to explain to you what is 'Vadei', 'Tosey', 'Rassam' and so on?

Is there any White Austraulian knows what is 'Vadei', 'Tosey' and 'Rassem'?

Do you want me to show you what is "Bharatanathium"?

Do you know what is "Bharatanathium"?

We are pure malays who lived in kampung but we know what is "Bharatanathium"? Do you know what is "Bharatanathium"?

"Bharatanathium", "Bharatanathium", "Bharatanathium",

Raj,
you are so NOT "Bharatanathium"!

SHAME ON YOU!

Dear Tun,

I'm a loyal reader of your blog ever since you started Chedet. I enjoy your writing as much as your thought provoking at times mind boggling topics. There were many instances I wanted to write my comment on your blog entries but out of shyness and yes not having knowledge as much as you do, I decided not to. But today, I signed up and posting my first comment on Chedet. Thanks to you for the courage.

I would like to comment on your previous blog entries "Attacks on Indian Students in Australia". Kudos to comments made by Raj, infact only an Australian should make a comment on that issue as it involves Australia and not Malaysia. As Malaysians, we have no right to interfere on telling other countries how to handle certain situations nor we are in the position to ask them questions (Since we Malaysians adopt similar policies then why not Australia?)

My question to you is, why not Tun focus on educating our own country (in fact it's your country too as you have more privileges than me although I was born here in M'sia but I don't get "Bumiputera status" as you're enjoying) Why do point fingers at other leaders or country when your own motherland is going through out of hand situations? Why not educate the current politicians and the future with your worldly knowledge on running a country so peaceful, harmonious, racism-less, crime-less? Is it that it's always very easy to point flaws on others than correcting our own self? I wonder Tun, you're most admired for your farsighted thoughts but at times, I think even a common man could think better than you (I'm so sorry if you find this insulting but that wasn't my intention. In fact what can you expect from a person who only completed Form 5 and could not further her studies due to financial difficulty)

2nd question. I also would like to know if your current and previous blog entries are based on your true concern to the Indian students in Australia and your Rakyat or were you just venting your anger, frustration at Barry Wain since He wrote a book about you? Kind of a revenge plot?

Tun, I hope you had a good break during this CNY with your family. In case you are planning a break, I would suggest, please go to Australia to find the truth in what Raj was telling in his comment. As for those who are talking about Australians killing people in Iraq, raping women etc etc, please also browse through our history book and you may find Australian troop's involvement in the Indonesian Confrontation, 1963-66 where Australians troops were helping us Malaysians during those tough times, which some of you may conveniently forgotten. I'm neither an Australian nor going to be an Australian. Please avoid using terms such as White "Australian Policy" as this deemed very racist, although you're not one.

Oh btw, I wonder how would we react if the foreign media were to claim Christians in M'sia are not safe due to the fact there were some churches got attacked? Authorities said it was crime motivated and not racism so, why do we see this Indians got attacked as a crime motivated too? One thing I clearly don't understand is, why we as Malaysians are so interested in this issue when India should be the one who's concerned?

Raj, an Indian, living in Sydney, Australia.

Raj is in full praise of the Australian Politicians. He appears to have tolerated the brutal act that caused body injury to the Indians in Australia. He blatantly denies the many outcry of protests, by the Indians in India, brought about by such brutality.

Wake-up anna!!!

Salam Tun,

I've been reading your blog for quite some time now. I'm currently a final year student in Melbourne University.

Sincerely, I do agree with Raj about the politics in Australia. From what I observed, the politics there are much more 'cleaner' and the politicians there are more focused on the well being of the citizens rather than busy filling their own pockets. I've seen how their parliament works; definitely much better compared to Malaysia.

I'm not entirely sure that all the attacks on Indian people in Australia were racially motivated but there were quite a number of such cases happened especially for the past 2-3 years. Some of them do appear so since there were cases where Indian students were bashed for no apparent reason.

Anyway, I still think that Barry Wain must be delusional in saying bad things about u. Some of your acts may seemed like a bad move but I'm sure they were necessary. You always have been one of the best if not the greatest leader Malaysia has ever had. You are greatly missed.

p/s: There was a talk about u which was recently held by Barry Wain in Melbourne but I didn't manage to attend it.

Salam kasih dan salam hormat Ayahanda Tun.

Tun, Firstly I would like to convey my greetings to your good self and to my fellow blogger Khairy J Wenger. I have been following Wenger's write and I should declare that this individual is neutral and unprejudiced in his (or her) review. I hope to be reading some more of his takes on things past and present. I am still trying to determine his angle of approach over the various issues on board here, and I must say that his reproach at times is diplomatically docile and compelling. May I from here kind Tun, direct my write openly to this forum.

I am particularly intrigued by the writer's suggestion of the lines that separates good and bad, truth and lies, how do we go about ascertaining these lines? Well frankly, maybe we don't. At best perhaps these types of definitions are paradox in character. No real fixed values, no real tangible hold and that leaves us reaching for something else in between.

So let's go in between; is this the new power ground? Is this the new breed that may in the end define our direction ahead as a sober nation? The rift created by BN and PR has critically polarized this nation. What they have both successfully done is to create an angry rightist platform and a fierce leftist platform. We can never credibly deny that has happened on all of us. For 52 over years, we have only known BN and the opposition. Since 2004 the opposition has rebranded themselves as Pakatan Alternatif, then that failed and four years later they re-branded as Pakatan Rakyat and that had taken them places apparently. But if we analyze their winning formula we would clearly see that their strength does not emanate from within them, but their strength is in truth the accumulation of weaknesses within BN and in particular UMNO. By mobilizing all cavalries and batteries into attacking them in their new found fame, would only make them stronger with sympathy votes.

So that brings things back to square one, how do you dismantled their apparent (notice the word apparent) strength? Perhaps maybe by simply overcoming as much as possible the weakness in BN (in particular UMNO) we may just achieve that. It has come to a point now where too much of the left and too much of the right is simply no good anymore. The check and balance mechanism don't always works best that way, as have been demonstrated to all of us in these past 52 years of comprehending things together.

Would things go back to the ways of old for all of us you me? Very much not likely anymore. After PRU12, people have begun accepting the third alternative front that has rightfully emerged. Maybe we must reckon that force and live with it. By that, I do not mean we sweep underneath any carpets old scores and we do not cause anymore irritations from anyone by making childish threats, by that I mean we come clean and we rise again from the ashes. You know where bullying takes things too right? Well you should really.

When we have successfully integrates our very own style, beliefs and concepts, and when we have "menjiwai" this new political reality, we would see that even the center platform could be turn into a powerful comrade. My dear esteemed blogger Wenger J Khairy, anakbudu3, Waja Perak, HBT and all the others, in the end it is not identifying right over wrong or left over right anymore, it is not that simple to any further extent. We have overshot past that during our October 2003 – April 2009 melee and subsequent debacle, but in the end (today) we must recognize what lies in between these two overconfident proverbial positions.

In political Malaysia now, before left became extreme left and before right became far right, they were one. But they left that oneness and formed their own identity (both of them). Today, regardless of how far they have polarized themselves, that center of oneness still exist and it refuges plenty of mature and rational political hopes in the present day us. To tap into this is the real answer now. Please, if I may impose on all of us; just ask your self honestly, politically where do you really stand 50 to 70% of the time my friends? What about the other 50 to 30% of the time? So I say for now, we come clean.

I hold firmly to my opinion that Abdullah Badawi should have publicly apologized to all Malays, to UMNO and to the majority of Malaysians upon his "retirement" then. We must never forget the words of Khairy Jamalludin challenging street demonstrators to stop acting like "beruk-beruk jalanan" and to take things to the ballot box instead. We must never forget the Pemuda battle cry in March 2008 for their failed coup on Kelantan. What was Khairy's Jamalludin tag line? 23 Tahun Pade Doh! Today it echoes upon him and his cohorts in blunder; Pade doh muko demo sekmo!

We must never forget our past. We can make mistakes in the future, but for our sake let us pray that it's all new found mistakes and never any single one a recurrence. Days when BN could hold 92% of Parliament may sadly have well been over for good on all of us. But we do not have to live bereft of a real 2/3 Parliamentary majority as we do now. That would make us a very weak government. We must have the 2/3 majority, but not in their traditional guise anymore.

Previously Tun Dr Mahathir had said, a weak government cannot run this mixed raced and religion nation well. Well, that is truth in every phrase. But we have also gone past that already and now we must look at it this way: Any government bereft of 2/3 Parliamentary Majority is a weak government which cannot seriously run this mix-bowl nation (or any nation really).

By hook or by crook, the race now is for a 2/3 Parliamentary Majority again on any given side of the divide. Politics of the caliber and intellect awaits all of us, the sort of intimidation politics and threats have been buried for good. Sporadic remnants may count their days within all existing fingers they may still have.

I am about done here and I must take my leave for now, Thank you kind Tun.

I am grateful that the government and society here accepted me as equal and I am assessed according to my capability not my race. The people of Australia has been working extremely hard to create an equal opportunity society without discrimination be it race religion, age, gentile, disability etc and I am proud to be part of it.

Hi Dr Mahathir,

Its interesting you are quite interested in the Australian Politics.

I am an Indian living with my family in Sydney Australia.What you have said has not brought any sense to me.Have you been in Australia to know how healthy the politics here between the Labor party and Liberal party.There is visibleness in the politics and frank Q&A to all politicians are welcome here.Every issue is consulted and debate with proper judgement and research.Its no Samy Vellu or Hishammudin here I tell you, these are World class politicians we are talking about here.

Let me put this as a point , what is currently happening in Australia.Indian students from India work very late nights at Petrol stations /7-11 to earn extra money to send back to their country or for tuition fees and goes back home alone which was the subject of assault and robbery.Mind you , this happenes everywhere in the world!!!Tell me if I am wrong , if you walked alone in Pudu Raya station at 2 am or Chow Kit at 2 am, you may not be assaulted?You must be kidding Mr Ex Prime Minister.

What is happening in Msia is injustice to many races , whether it is a Malay women who is caned for the sake of religion or a discriminated Chinese/Indian who cannot get into university due to discrimination of the quota system that you have set.

While I may agree there will be racism wherever you go due to the historical demographics in the past,but that doesn't mean you can lash out at someone before looking at your own country.How many times indians were sprayed with tear gas in your own country, how many Chinese were called whores/pendatang in your country,how many Muslim Women were discriminated and caned, how many women were raped by immigrants from Indonesia & Bangladesh? WHAT DID YOU DO when all these happened? Please have a look at your own country before coming in as a hero saying 'Oh Indians are attacked in Australia and nobody said anything to Rudd'.

Julia Gillard, Kevin Rudd are working very hard to get the "NO RACISM IN MODERN AUSTRALIA". All children of India will be protected on the soil of Australia. Prime Minister Kevin Rudd has apologised to the Aborigines for what his ancestors have done. Do you have guts to apologise to Chinese and Malays for what YOU have done?

Please think before you put such a blunt, unresearched fact in your blog especially about Australia.

Till then, I wish you safe health and good luck.

Dr. M,

Don't forget that the "civilized" Australia was one of four western nations that supported the invasion/rape of Iraq.

Australia has voted in support of the apartheid wall in Palestine.

Australia has also supported the East Timor freedom movement and Assyrian Independence movement.

Strange, we the "barbarian" East have refused to support the independence movement of the indigenous people of Australia. We still send our youth to be educated in that nation despite their hatred toward Asians/Muslims/any other foreigners.

Salam Tun & fellow CheDet's Bloggers,

What else can we do except telling them to mind their own business? We need to have the best relevant methods to run our country simply because of its multi-racial-religious-cultural nature of its people. It is unique in the world and yet we should be proud that so far we managed to live and will continue to live in peace and harmony (of course with a few hiccups a long the way)for generations to come. We have great challenges ahead to overcome and they are not the least helpful. So Just ignore them and we should continue to adopt " I DID MY WAY " approach.

May Allah bless us all.

By anakbudu3  on February 19, 2010 12:25 AM

Assalamualaikum Ayahnda Tun n Bonda, please allow me,

we have to bear the reponsibility of what we have done on our own & should not blame anybody else or others. people do make mistakes at their own accord therefore why must the PM be blamed when other individuals commit the offence? it's very typical of accusing PM when things go wrong in their own bloody hands. there's this 'cikgu' who said malaysian courts belong to PM! no wonder the pkr advisor can take a ride on the court as he likes!!! see the irony...

i do hope that the malaysian indian students are not mistaken by the aussies as Indians. we have one multiracial group of students all over the world & if the different ethnicity is taken as individual unit outside malaysia, then the picture is going to be painted ugly. i also hope malaysian students abroad will always stay united & maintain our good name as little ambassadors. when we were in uk in 1995, me & my cohorts displayed our best, i guess since we were already the government servants pursuing our studies & with our family with us, there were more to accomplish back then.

Fergus Hanson and Rory Medcalf on 18 Feb 2010 write in to The Australian that an independent inquiry into attacks on Indian students should be set as it would show they're serious in dealing with the matter & to clear the air with India. Australia has a lot of problems at home to be tackled besides this. like the rest of us, we should be doing the same, at least to see our own family affairs, our children, our parents & relatives. how often do we see it to them?

racial integration has long been practised in our country. in the past we used to chant 'Muhibbah', 'Malaysia Berjaya', 'Bahtera Merdeka' & a lot more patriotic songs as school children, during assemblies, scout campings, Independent Day celebrations etc. i enjoyed myself very much & embrace those memories dearly with friends of different background & races. it's true when we were young, we see no colours.

i dont know about this nowadays but in a school where i'm teaching, there are only national and state anthems being sung & it's a kind of sad to see that patriotism is slowly dying away in our youngsters when the strengthening aspect is ignored...

we have our own prickling thorns at home. the influx of foreign students & immigrants, visitors with unwanted cultures brought along seem to cause some stirs... there have been some cases of uncomfortable atmosphere when comes to the foreign students' affairs & the illegal immigrants in our country. part of it is because they did not bother to learn our way of life especially of the Malays/Muslims here. part of it may have also caused by our own ignorance since the Malays/Muslims do not practise what they preach. sometimes it's difficult to see the difference between the Malays/Muslims and other races in our country. the ways many Malays/Muslims speak, act, wear & behave do not reflect their race/religion. therefore, foreigners may not be able to distinguish one from another & treat us the same like the rest with disrespect. even in politicking & working, many do not reflect upon the teaching of Islam we embrace. politicians adopt the worse behaviour than they ought have to and therefore has brought about mere assumptions of who we are - brain-dead or blind followers, extreme supporters, scum-bag partisans and so on. only the learned & wise ones can be more able to perceive things better.

Ayahnda Tun & Bonda, foreign media & their readers can howl all night long about things happen in our country that they see from afar but as malaysian loyal citizens, we know we must uphold our dignity by doing the best we can. i may sound idealistic but it is of my duty as an educator to educate my students/children what we can do as malaysians. do not expect the best will come to us till we do the best first. in the past, i might have been very enthusiastic about this & that but i guess i mellow down as time goes by...we see things differently as we grow & in the end, nothing matters except the peace that we long for...trust me, we lose all our wants when we lose our youth & strength. all we hope for is to have some peace at home. guess it's everyone's dream, too 7 hope it will not be too late case for each of us.

Tqvm Ayahnda Tun for all that you have done for us & our country...):-

May Allah SWT bless both of you, always...

Wassalam.

Ayahanda Tun,

1. Barry Wain would certainly not put the blame of Australians attack Indians (minority) on Mr Kevin Rudd, the Prime Minister, it's normal in Australia because whites dominate the land of Down Under.
2. But supposing this happens in Malaysia, then of course the Prime Minister must have been responsible because he is not a white, he is a yellow skin Asian.
3. However, if the PM of Malaysia is Anwar Ibrahim, we can predict that Barry Wain would treat this attack as isolated incidents in Malaysia too.
4. What is Barry Wain's Agenda?
5. His Agenda is to make sure 1997 & 2007 financial crisis repeat.
6. Barry Wain and his alike cannot accept the fact that Asians are wiser in managing their countries.

7. Since Asians are good at managing the countries, hence, there is no way that they can get back the sum that they have invested (lost).

8. The problem with some people, they are good in organising demonstrations ignoring the consequences of such action.

9. Did we learn from past?

10. We do, especially the majority of the middle-class and grass-roots learned from past because we know that we cannot change yeterdays, we can only learn to avoid such incidents to be repeated again.

11. Our so-called future young leaders are so ego and always think that they are right because they believe in democracy. Do they know what is democracy? I am wondering what is this KJ and his UMNO members are up to by telling off the Australians not to interfere Malaysia's court through non-violent demonstration? He has not learned, and he has chosen to be Anwar's CD. What a waste, an Oxford young talented Malay guy has chosen to act naive and making himself a fool in the eyes of middle and moderate Malaysians.

12. With these so-called like KJ, Liow & Wee, without Anwar's sodomy's case, BN will lost eventually.

13. The government of Malaysia must stand firm because they are paid by taxpayers to safe guard and protect the country's harmony, peace, wealth and unity in Malaysia.

14. It doesn't matter what the Australians think of us because we do not work for them, moreover, they are not our pay master and do not feed us.

15. I hope that the so-called "tidak sabar" future leaders, go back to your positions and do what you are paid for before rakyat force you out in next election by not electing you as the area MP.

16. By the way, why UMNO youth wants our PM Najib to offer KJ a minister post?

17. Everyone in Malaysia knew how KJ climbed up to the UMNO youth chief position and people are sick with UMNO because of this tabiat.

18. Who is ABI? His comment sound irrational filled with jealousy. If a person who does not work for themselves, then they are naught (zero value). I guess he has learned from wrong fatwa.

19. Many of us are fed up with this Anwar's Sodomy II, the only thing that we want to know is Did Anwar do it?

Good night, Ayahanda Tun.

By ekompute  on February 19, 2010 12:15 AM

Well, truth be said, the Australian government has not been known for actively promoting racism. The same, unfortunately, cannot be said of the Malaysian government.

I must admit that I was very skeptical of 1Malaysia at first. But after Datuk Seri Najib sacked his special political assistant, I am beginning to trust it a little bit more... unless the sacking is due to other reasons. I have been very wary of official reasons, eg. Tan Sri Abdullah Ahmad was sacked as Chief Editor of the NSTP Group, ostensibly for offending the Saudi royal family in his articles but others have cited unofficial reasons. Anwar Ibrahim's present court case does raise an eyebrow after he has been found not guilty of a previous offence. Seems like our judiciary system is very scary.

salam tun,

sebagai rakyat malaysia dan orang melayu yang sudah di asuh dengan ideologi liberalisme (sesetengah org melabelkannya mahathirisme), saya dan rakan-rakan merasa amat sedih apabila kebelakangan ini hak-hak orang melayu telah dirogol, diliwat dan dinodai dengan raku oleh politikus-politikus murahan yang gilakan kuasa. mereka menggunakan apa jua cara untuk menyerang dan melemahkan jati diri dan pemikiran anak bangsa yang merdeka ini. hampir semua politikus-politikus di malaysia ini tidak kira dari apa parti pun sanggup menggadaikan hak orang melayu semata-mata mahu mejadi popular di mata rakyat (saya cadangkan ahli-ahli politik ini masuk akademi fantasia musim yg akan datang). yang paling memalukan ianya datang dari parti yang kononnya memperjuangkan orang melayu yang mana pada hari ini parti berkenaan mengangkat dirinya sendiri sebagai juara rakyat (sekaligus menafikan perjuangan parti-parti komponen lain sebagai rakan seperjuangan hak-hak rakyat). sebenarnya mereka-mereka ini adalah orang-orang yang gagal. mereka gagal mencorakan pemikiran rakyat dan bangsa melayu agar berdaya saing dan menjadi bangsa yang maju. ungkapan dan ucapan pemimpin-pemimpin dari parti-parti ini kosong dan hampa semata-mata.

pada hari ini saya dan rakan-rakan lain tidak lagi percaya pada politikus-politikus hingusan ini untuk memperjuangkan nasib orang-orang melayu. sehubungan itu kami mohon pendapat, cara dan sokongan dari tun untuk melakukan sesuatu demi mempertahankan hak-hak orang melayu di tanah melayu ini dari terus diperjudikan. untuk pengetahuan tun kami juga tidak lagi percaya pada parti yg menunjangi kerajaan pada hari ini. sekian.

I'm not clear what your point is here.

These incidents of Indian students being assaulted in Oz are pretty much isolated to Melbourne

Similarly, there have been cases of students of African origin complaining about discrimination, ill-treatment and assault in KL.

No one has pointed the finger at AAB, PM Najib, the (wooden) Cabinet, Malays or the Government machinery. I repeat NO ONE!!

So, what's the beef?

Has the Washinton Post, The Economist, George Soros or the IMF blamed anyone at UMNO/BN here for these incidents, that you are aware of? Please enlighten us!!

Barry Wain see children of the world in multi colors.The white is the Supremo and the others as the secondary species and the not so important populaces that can be subjected to ridicules and intimidation.That is why he has an inclination to continuously attacked the colors leaders who stand tall to fight for their country survival and stayed blind on the white leaders despotism;like genocides in Israel,Iraq,Afganistan,Pakistan and about a decade ago the mass killing in Bosnia.Mahathir is anti-semitic,Saddam and Ahmadenejad are all bad leaders while glorifying Bush,Blair as Saviours of the World.So Wain,open up your white eye wide open and be 'color blind' when commentings on foreign Lands and Leaders coz you know peanut on our history and culture.Why not you migrate back to where you belong and stick to be a busy body in your own homeland.

Cheers Tun,Stay healthy.

Australia is an open country. It is a gay country in the true sense. Their politicians conduct their ends gaily. Top Malaysian politicians gaily open sate houses in the outbacks, gaily invest in bungalows, gaily got caught with undeclared money, gaily enjoy the (gay) community) out of habit. Hop, hop on the kangaroo!

They have admitted for the lost children kidnapped from whites and aborigenes. What a pity state of the aboriginal reservations? Selective genocide.

Yes, they believe in shades of colour and conviction. Higher than thou lingering as if to rid off of its history of convicts. Barry Wain, gaily is a man of conviction.

Malaysia, convict the man on the dubur fast.

typical malaysians..we always blame others instead of ourselves...just look at the current influx of illegals in our country.

when crime rate is high, they blame the illegal immigrants, and later they blame immigration and police for lack of enforcements but at the end of the day, who employ these illegal workers?...our very own manufacturing, construction, agriculture, education (esp. the private colleges who loves students from Africa) sector and last but not least...housewives..we were the culprits who brought this problem to ourselves.

Dear YAB Tun,

You have probably have got fed up with me (perhaps even some of your loyal followers) but I have to say this piece.

I have been blogging for almost 2 years plus. My best work was entitled "Tell, Sell, Join, Consult" , a discussion on leadership styles of the many different Prime Ministers in this country . (<http://wengerkhairy.blogspot.com/2009/08/tell-sell-join-consult.html>)

I would perhaps modify some of it, but in general, I would preserve the thrust of the message. In it I do pay tribute to you - but you have many different loyal followers that really its not something new.

Not all your critics hate you. Some do. Some don't.

Barry Wain would belong to the former. He hates you and has 0 concern for the country. That much people should be able to figure out.

On the other hand, you have people who may criticize you but not to the extent that they hate you. They criticize you because certain mistakes you have made has not been admitted, and this will cause those mistakes to recur.

I would be one of the latter. There are some aspects of your leadership which can never be emulated, there are some which should not.

I hope you can see things in shades of grey. Malaysia only has 60 odd years of independence, United States has 250, Indonesia about 70 so on and so forth. Unfortunately unless we are contented to go down the paths of diminishing returns and compete with the Vietnams, Thailand and Indonesia, when we should instead be surpassing the Singapores and Australias, we have no choice but to be able to make the right decisions moving forward.

The question is how do we know right from wrong?

Perhaps you can help us in that manner.

Sincerely

Unfortunately, that's the common mindset of Barry Wain and other descendants of ex-convicts in Australia.

They have the same mindset as a former convict and now the Opposition Leader who is also now a serial contempt of court person residing in Malaysia.

Tun,

All races should be protected.
