The Strategic Information and Research Development Centre (SIRD) is an independent publishing house founded in January 2000 in Petaling Jaya, Malaysia. The SIRD list focuses on Malaysian and Southeast Asian Studies, Economics, Gender Studies, the Social Sciences, Politics and International Relations. Our books address the scholarly community, students, the NGO and development communities, policymakers, activists and the wider public.

SIRD also distributes titles (via its sister organisation, GB Gerakbud Enterprise Sdn Bhd) published by scholarly and institutional presses, NGOs and other independent publishers. We also organise seminars, forums and group discussions. All this, we believe, is conducive to the development and consolidation of the notions of civil liberty and democracy.

In 2001, a young journalist with The Star newspaper interviewed me and published an article aptly entitled “No Stopping the People’s Lawyer”. It described my long career in public service. At the interview, he casually asked what I was going to do after my retirement from the Kuala Lumpur Regional Centre for Arbitration. I said that I was going to write my memoirs, and since then Dr Neil Khor has been helping me collect data, sift through old newspapers and documents; and read the early chapters of this book.

Research became even more essential once the early chapters on family and my university years were completed. I would also like to thank Dr Loh Wei Leng and her research assistants Bee Leng and Meow Eng of the University of Malaya who helped with the collection of information about my involvement in the trade unions and my career as a lawyer. I would also like to acknowledge Mr Lee Teck Shing, who drove me to the National Archives and Wisma Putra to retrieve information relevant to my diplomatic years.

I let my brother Lim Kean Chye read chapters related to our family and my early years in Penang. I am still not sure what he thinks of the entire project, but since he reproduced some of it in his website “Penang File”, the project might yet be useful. Dato’ Henry Barlow and Mrs Anita Murray read drafts of the chapters and reassured me that the project was worthwhile pursuing.

Finally, this book would not have seen the light of day without the dedicated support of Ms Ch’ng Kim See, Head Librarian at the Institute of Southeast Asian Studies (ISEAS), Singapore. Kim See arranged for my papers and documents to be deposited and catalogued at the ISEAS library. She also helped organize a publisher to produce this volume. With the assistance of her colleague, Ms D. Gandhimathy, she ploughed through hundreds of photographs in my collection to select a few for this book. As she works in Singapore, she sometimes relied on Ms Margaret Wee and Ms Linda Yip, who reside in Kuala Lumpur, to follow up on relevant matters with me, and to help relocate my archives to ISEAS. In this last mile effort I must thank Mr Chong Ton Sin and Mr Anthony Lam of SIRD (Strategic Information and Research Development Centre) for publishing my Memoirs, and Mr Izrin Muaz for his editorial assistance.

A friend once told me to keep a diary, for one day it will keep me. Sadly, I never followed the advice and the writing of these memoirs has been a strenuous and difficult task. Whilst I will surely keep a daily diary if I have to do it all over again, it is now obvious that friends can keep one just as well.
